Recently Passes New Revenue Bill—Roper Stirs Men to Sharp Retort—Young Farouk Becomes King of Egypt.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Ordinary speed which then condensed into a new $305,000,000 bill was passed through the house. The vote, 207 to 53, was almost airtight. The bill was passed 82 yeas and 53 nays. Democrats voted against the measure, while the Republicans carried the majority to cast their bill with no administration. The measure authorizes an annual appropriation of $12,000,000 to be distributed among the states on a matching basis, in proportion to population. In addition it authorizes $1,200,000 a year to be allotted for the payment of salaries and travel expenses of vocational teachers, and $1,000,000 a year to be allotted for the preparation of teachers and supervisors.

King Farouk, 24, died of a gangrenous throat infection at his country place near Cairo at the age of six. His son, Prince Fuad, a 16-year-old pupil in the royal military academy at Woolwich, England, was immediately proclaimed king and started for Egypt, sailing from Marseilles on a British liner escorted by a British warship in order to avoid going by way of Italy. Fuad's death, a descendant of Mohammed Ali, founder of the Egyptian royal family, was the youngest son of Khedive Ismail Pasha "the magnificent" Egyptian sovereign from 1863 to 1879.

Another member of congress has been having so lively a time as has Martin A. Zinebeck of Walla Walla, that the playboy of the West. He has been arrested, fined and imprisoned for a month. He is a member of the Washington legislature and has been looking for a ministerial position for several years. Then he was elected to Maryland, obtained another license, woke up a dame and he and Rubye were made man and wife. Next day Martin led Mrs. Zinebeck into the gallery of the house, and the members all arose and cheered them. Perhaps his actions will be a little more conventional hereafter.

RECHSSTUEBER, Hitler's controller of national economies, and he has decreed an era of Spartan simplicity for the German people. Goring summoned the commissars for raw materials to a conference and warned them they must further restrict imports and help draft measures to increase exports. Only goods vitally necessary to the army and materials needed to produce goods for foreign export must be allowed to enter Germany, Goring decreed. Officials of the propaganda ministry further darkened the picture of the year future by telling the press it must prepare the public for a "stiffening of relations between France and Germany as soon as the French elections are finished." They also deplored the fact that relations with England have suffered.

Italy's victorious troops in northern Ethiopia continued their advance on Addis Ababa, though it was somewhat retarded by the efforts of the natives to blow up the roadways and otherwise harass the invaders. The Italian motorized column in this movement is the most formidable yet formed in this war and is notable for the large number of white troops included. General Graziani's southern army, meanwhile, was driving toward Harar, second city of the empire. In three columns the invaders would occupy it without bloodshed. The government prepared to move out, and the native inhabitants all scuttled for the hills. Fascists took refuge in the legations, the Americans going to the British compound where there was a bomb-proof shelter.

When the Italian forces reached Debra Birhan, only 75 miles from Addis Ababa, Emperor Haile Selassie ordered the capital city left undefended, being the invaders would occupy it without bloodshed. The government prepared to move out, and the native inhabitants all scuttled for the hills. Fascists took refuge in the legations, the Americans going to the British compound where there was a bomb-proof shelter.

Soot on wall paper may be removed with corn meal. Brush on as much of the soot as possible, then rub on corn meal until it becomes soiled, and brush off.

To determine whether or not the soil in your garden is acid, buy 10 cents' worth of litmus paper at the drug store. Put litmus in a ball of moistened earth taken from your garden. If the soil turns pink, soil is acid. . . . When making lead tea double the amount of tea leaves used. When ice melts it weakens tea. . . . Dilute canned soup with water in which vegetables have been boiled instead of with pure water. The flavor is much better. . . . If water seeps through the walls of your garden pool, paint with waterproof paint. . . . Put litmus in a ball of SENATOR ALBURN W. BARKLEY of Kentucky, who was temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention in 1932 and as such delivered the keynote speech which will serve as the theme of the party campaign in June, outlining the issues of this year's campaign as his party views them. Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas will be the permanent chairman. Yet another reporter will be Former Judge John E. Mack of New York. Four years ago he placed Franklin D. Roosevelt in nomination, and he will do it again in June.

These selections were made by the committee on arrangements. Other officers of the convention chosen are: Leo Barnes of Alabama, chief doorkeeper; Mrs. J. Borden Hartman, national committeewoman of the convention; Mrs. Agnes Collins Dunn of New Hampshire as assistant; Col. Edward C. Halsey, secretary of the senate, sergeant at arms; Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri, parliamentarian, assisted by Representative John J. O'Connor of New York; W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the convention. National Chairman Farley said that the two-thirds rule, which has prevailed in Democratic conventions for a century, will not be abolished. The rules committee will be headed by Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri and it will report for abrogation of the two-thirds rule as well as elimination of the unit rule. The latter binds the state delegation to abide by the decision of a majority of the delegation. According to Mr. Farley, these changes will not prevent the practically unanimous nomination of President Roosevelt.

CHANCELLOR KURT SCHENBERG, speaking at Baden, asserted that "Austria is not Italy and Austrians are not Fascists." Von Starheimberg asserted that if internal foes press too hard there will be a "repetition of 1934"—when the Heimwehr triumphed in a short but bloody civil war against Socialists. False friends around Schenbergs, von Starheimberg said, and the Heimwehr plans to protect him from them. For Austria, said Starheimberg, there are three possibilities—a continuation of the authority of the state, Nazism, or communism. He asserted the Heimwehr is determined to preserve the Fascist system and would continue as a separate organization.

CONTESTS aided by Mrs. Oliver Harman, New York society leader, and Alfred E. Smith, Jr., were barred from the multi-state "lotteries" in order to be signed by Postmaster General Farley. The contests were directed against the National Conference for Legalizing Lotteries, Inc., of which Mrs. Harman is president, and the Golden States Advertising company, of which young Smith is vice president and controller. In the latter case a temporary injunction restraining the New York Postmaster from enforcing the order was obtained from Federal Judge Knott in New York. Army and navy officials were reported to be concerned over a new treaty with Russia which is being secretly considered by the government. It was said an uncorrected text of the part sought it provides for "joint congressional action" rather than for defense of the Canal Zone in event of aggression. The grant by Panama for the "use, occupation, and control of lands and waters outside the jurisdiction of the United States." If necessary, it is announced by this country in the treaty

Baseball's 100th Birthday

The birth of baseball at Cooperstown, N. Y., will be celebrated there this summer on its 100th anniversary. The Albany legislature is being asked to vote $5,000 toward studying the development of the game from the beginning and to advertise the celebration. The field on which the first game was played is called Doubleday field after the inventor of the game. The baseball museum of records of the sport and its greatest players also is located at Cooperstown.
